fer not to let the controversy come up until the tariff has been disposed of. The storm that broke over the holidays, however, will undoubtedly appear in the Senate to the exclusion of any other subject and perhaps for several days.

Matter Takes Serious Turn.

The exchange between the Prestdent and Borah, coupled with the evelation that the senator has been working on prohibition enforcement Rancher and Wife conditions for several months, gives a quite serious phase to what has appeared to be pretty much of a holiday farce heretofore.

The controversy had seemed to be nothing more than the periodical statement barrage which would result, as the barrages have resulted in the past, in more prohibition enforcement funds and more enforcement agents. With Borah pursuing the course he is and armed as he is, it is not unreasonable to believe that the present controversy may turn out differently.

not unreasonable to believe that the present controversy may turn out differently.

There was a long huddle yesterday afternoon at the Treasury of officials having to do with prohibition enforcement. Among those present were Undersecretary Ogden Mills, Rear Admiral Frederick C. The meeting was subsequently described as a routine one, but it was right lengthy to be of this nature.

Representative Schafer, of Wisconsin, another wet, said: "The recent whines and walls of the day leaders are comparable to rats leaving a sinking ship."

An indication of the trouble that lies shead of the President before he effects the reforms that the administration has been talking about for months and which, it is understood, are to constitute the initial findings of the law commission, was seen in the lack of enthusiasm on the part of Chairman Snell, of the House rules committee, for the joint congressional committee which the President wants set up so the commission can unburset up so the commission can unbur-

They already were under $5,000 bond each on a charge of malicious shooting and wounding, filed before Fugate died.

Jailer Soille, Combs told on the witness stand substantially the same story he related after Pugate was fortibly removed from the Jail—that six men entered his room, bound him, took his keys and escaped with Pugate. He said he could not recognize any of the men since they were all masked.

Slias Fugate, the slain man's brother, said that he had reached Chester Fugate before he was removed from the culvert into which he was thrown after being shot several times, but that he was suffering from exposure and was unable to talk. Slias said he remained, with him most of the time that he was at the hospital and that he named the six men on trial as the ones that did the shooting.

trial as the ones that did the shooting.

The defense attempted to prove that during the time that Cheeter Fugate was in the hospital he first named three men as his attackers, then changed it to six.

The defense contention was that the other names were suggested to him by visitors.

The prosecution countered by attempting to prove that when Fugate first attempted to name his attackers he was in a frozen condition and was physically unable to talk further after he had named three. Later, when his condition slightly improved, he was able to give a coherent account of the attack, it was claimed, and his dying statement was cited as evidence of this point.

-will take place in Constitution Hall on Saturday evening. January 11. Sigrid Onegin is the star who will sing for us on that evening. Music lovers are hastening to secure their seats, knowing that if they want to be sure of reservations it is the only thing to do.

Sigrid Onegin is a contraito of profound musicianship, magnetic in personality. It is generally conceded that few contraitos have dawned on the musical horizon in a quarter of a century to compare with her.

Mme. Onegin is a native of Stockholm, and spent her girlhood in France. At 15 she moved to Germany with her mother, taking up vocal studies under Eugene Robert Weiss and Italian masters. She made her American debut in Carnegie Hall, October, 1922, as soloist with the Philadeliphia Orchestra. The late Krehbiel declared at this time, "The voice is surely without a peer in America."

The press of the country has been more than generous in praise of Sigrid Onegin. The New York World says; "Though Mme. Onegin calls her voice a contraito, it is one of those organs whose boundaries are too inexact to permit strict classification. In range and quality her low register is true contraito, while her highest flights encroach upon the domain of the mezzo-soprano." At any rate, we all have a great treat in store for us. What Action Would Mean

Such action would make all foreigners subject to Chinese laws, similar to the present status of Russians, Germains and other aliens not enjoying extrateritorial rights.

As a means of assisting in the process of assuming jurisdiction over all foreigners in China, the Nationalist government is expected to propose establishment of five special courts to be located in Canton, Hankow, Harbin, Tientsin and Shanghai in which cases involving foreigners and their interests may be tried.

These courts would be governed by Chinese judges, but would include foreign judicial experts who would be employes of the Nationalist government, chosen upon recommendation of some organization like The Hague Court of International Justice.

The proposal of the Nationalist government, it is believed, would also provide that these experts serve in a purely advisory capacity. Should the Chinese judge render a decision which the foreign advisor opposed, the case will go to the Chinese appellate court. If the latter court upholds a Chinese judge in a special court case, it will go to the judicial yuan (department) for final decision.

The special courts are expected to be proposed for a period of five years, after which they are to be merged with regular Chinese courts and experts abolished, finally ending all semblance to foreign authority in Chine.

The chemical analysis revealed the cake examined was filled with poison sufficient to cause death. The snalysis also showed the poison to be arsenic, and subsequent investigation revealed that a sack of flour in the cake maker's home accidentally had been mixed with a white powder used as an insectitude, in the garden, which contained calcium arsenic. This powder, which looks very much like flour, evidently had been dumped into the flour sack by someone wanting the paper bag. Larrick said. Convinced the cakes were accidentally poisoned, officials of the bureau refused to divulge the name of the household baker or any of the dozen persons said to have been made ill by eating the cakes. They stated that all the cakes containing the poison have been found and no danger exists as a consequence.

The woman who baked them is said to be responding rapidly to treatment for the poisoning suffered through using some of the flour in her cooking.

When it was discovered that one of the cakes had been sent to Canada, Inspector Larrick warned the recipient family by long distance telephone. He also reported the matter to the commercial secretary of the Canadian Legation, who telephoned Dominion food authorities. When the unopened package reached its destination in Quebec last Thursday, it bore its original Christmas seal and also the official seal of the Canadian government, with the poison warning of the food and drug administration.

Hoovers Give Dance for Son In White House

Impromptu Event Marks Climax of Yuletide Festivities.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE dance which the President and Mrs. Hoover gave last night at the White House for their son, Mr. Allan Hoover, was inevitably the high spot of the holiday entertaining. It was, how-ever, a "small and early" party, so arranged, with Mrs. Hoover's usual thoughtfulness, in order that guests might go on to the several other balls last evening, invitations for which had been issued weeks

This White House dance was more or less impromptu in character, most of the 185 boys and girls having been invited by tele-phone, and Miss Marion Jardine, daughter of the former Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Jardine, having been commissioned to help Mr. Allan Hoover round up the girls for the fete.

Assembling at 10 o'clock, the company found the great East Room cleared for dancing to the music of a famous orchestra, whose jazz is dear to the younger set. Supper was served at small tables in the state dining room. Fresh flowers from the White House conservatories supplemented the holly greaths and poinsettias used for the Christmas festivities, with the gayly decorat a Christmas trees as focal points in each of the state appartments, and the stately Executive Mansion was at its loveliest in its holiday dress.

Mrs. Hoover, who had been reported ill over the week-end, received with her son.

The dance last night might be described as Mr. Allan Hoover's "debut" in Washington. He has been in town but little since the President and Mrs. Hoover came to the White House, although he spent a good deale of last summer with the President and Mrs. Hoover at their camp on the Rapidan. And for four years, while President Hoover was Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Hoover was a student at Leland Stanford University. This winter he is taking a course at the School of Business Administration at Harvard University.

many a long day—until last night—has there been a fete similar to those merry young people's parties which made White House history in the Taft and Roosevelt administrations. In addition to the ball which Mr. and Mrs. William Stephen Corby gave last night at Ishpiming to follow the reception at which their daughter. Miss Muriel Eleanor Corby, was presented to society, there were several dances last night to supplement the festivities at the White House. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Parkhurst gave a ball at the Carlton for their debutante daughter, Miss Anna Parkhurst, the dancing continuing into the small hours of the morning. Preceding the dance fhere was a dinner for 80 guests, served at small tables in the patio. And while this was in progress Miss Jenny Hill Barry, a pupil of Yvette Guibert, gave lyric dance interpretations, with Mr. George Ryall as accompanist. Mr. Ryall also presented plano solos. Miss Hazel Seligman, of New York, and Miss Sara Turner, of Philadelphia, who are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Parkhurst, assisted the young hostess.

Then, there was the charming dance given by Mrs. Rushmore Pat-dance

INDIA AND EGYPT.

Prime Minister MacDonald's political pledges respecting India and Egypt which were made to secure radical votes in the last British election, are now reaping an unexpected harvest. India is seething with unrest and demanding independence, having lost faith in thoroughly aroused against the treaty which it regards as a denial of promised independence.

It will now be interesting to note the reaction of the British Parliament and people to the aftermath of the policy of socialistic promises which aroused the hopes of subject peoples. Few have believed that Mr. MacDonald ever intended to give India the status of a dominion or to give Egypt genuine selfgovernment, despite the fact that he proclaimed these doctrines in campaign speeches. So long as he had no responsibility in dealing with India and Egypt, Mr. MacDonald criticised those in authority and played hand in glove with the malcontents in India and Egypt who were finding fault with British rule.

After Mr. MacDonald became prime minister the question naturally arose as to what he proposed to do about his pledges. To cope with the dilemma, the prime minister adopted one viewpoint for his British hearers and another totally different viewpoint for those in India and Egypt, who had relied upon his past utterances. To the British he confided that he had never really meant what he said. To the people of India and Egypt he begged for patience and indulgence until the time should come for carrying out his program. Meanwhile, a commission set up to deal with the India problem and a crafty treaty with Egypt promised a postponement of the day of reckoning.

But the treaty was branded as a sham by the Egyptians, and the new Egyptian Parliament will not ratify it. The sentiment against it is overwhelming, and the Egyptian premier who signed it has been eliminated. A disturbed and highly dangerous turn has come in the relations between Egypt and Great Britain.

In India, the new national congress has just opened amid chaos and with a grim determination to break away from British rule. MacDonald's own slogans are being used by the agitators to arouse sentiment against "British imperialism," so-called.

Before Mr. MacDonald, for his own political purposes, helped to sow the seeds of discontent against British rule in India, such leaders as Mahatma Gandhi opposed violence and consistently urged peaceful methods of attempting to obtain larger home rule. But the people are taking the bit in their teeth, in view of the failure of the MacDonald government to bring about a change, In the address which Pundit Jawaharial Nehru, president of the national congress, made on Saturday last amid tumultuous cheers, he said:

If the congress or the Indian nation comes to the conclusion that violence will rid us of our slavery I have no doubt it will be adopted. Violence is bad but slavery is worse.

The Socialist government of Great Britain is now up against a real probn. caused in large measure by the agitation of British Socialists and Red sympathizers, led by Ramsay Mac-Donald.

SELECTIVE LAWLESSNESS.

the opinion of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University. the present "widely heard cry for law enlators of some particular law in which they may not be maintained beyond the presen are interested. "If law enforcement meant the enforcement of all law, then the social order, at least in the United States, would quickly be afflicted with paralysis, partly because of the absurdity of many of these laws and partly because of their open conflicts with each other."

No one will dispute Dr. Butler's statement that in searching for the remedy of lawlessness attention should be given to the law itself. But when he declares that "lawlessness is selective, and unbroken human experience goes to prove that a man may hold one law in utter contempt and vet have high respect for the great body of law," he goes too far. Any situation in which the individual is privileged to select the laws he will obey and those he will disregard leads to a breakdown of public authority. Most citizens do not need the compulsion of law, being governed by conscience and social control. But if each individual were to violate the laws he does not believe in, there would be social paralysis indeed.

Dr. Butler refers to the "defiance of the Constitution for a decade by the Congress. of the United States in order that it may protect a part of its present membership, or the constant breaking over its constitutional limitations by the United States Senate in order to gratify its whims or flatter its vanity." That such examples of lawlessness are demoralizing to the whole country can not be denied, but they do not justify the individual in flouting laws that do not suit his fancy.

The basis of democracy is the rule of the majority, in spite of Dr. Butler. If public authority were not exerted through law enforcement the Nation could not survive a week. Administration of the law is carried out by officers who have no authority to decide whether any given statute is wise or unwise. It is their duty to compel adherence to the law without selecting the statutes they will enforce or the persons to whom they should apply. Any other course leads to injustice and disruption of public authority. Improvement of the law itself should be Mr. MacDonald's pledge. Egypt is given due consideration, but the fact that defective statutes are on the books gives no excuse for "selective" lawlessness.

MARK SULLIVAN'S DREADFUL CHARGE.

Mark Sullivan is responsible for the hideous allegation that the senators who have suddenly burst forth in that grand old chorus, "How Dry I Am," are merely playing politics. He cunningly piles up a lot of facts to support his charge. He alludes to the coming primaries, which will decide the fate of senators whose terms are expiring. They must get busy if they are to win reelection. Some of them, Southern Democrats, voted for Al Smith, and now they must show that they are extra dry to offset their record in supporting a wet for President. Aspiring young rivals are at work in the various States, shouting out the horrible details, pointing to the volume and page, and asking how a senator can be dry at heart and still support Al Smith.

The only recourse of these senators, observes the pitiless Mark, is to play politics by outdrying all other drys. The Treasury will bleed if they have their way. Untold millions for prohibition enforcement must be appropriated. Good-by to hopes of further tax reduction! The Law Enforcement Commission is no good, enforcement is a farce, Mellon must go, Mitchell is sidestepping, there must be new laws. The District of Columbia must be Saharized. The purchaser must join the seller in Atlanta. Bigger and better prisons must be provided for every State. Judges who utter a feeble peep in defense of the rights of man must be

Mark Sullivan's indictment is plausible, in spite of the shudders it evokes. But in one particular he falls down badly. The loudest voice in the chorus, resounding like an Emergency ambulance or a fire siren, is that of Senator Borah, who is not from the South, not a Democrat, and not a supporter of Al Smith. There is no deadly young rival in Idaho challenging the dry record of Senator Borah. He is not forced to play politics to prove that he is a dry. So Mark's reasoning collapses, and Senator Borah emerges innocent of the dreadful charge. The reason for his outburst remains to be disclosed-but it is not politics.

Another statesman has joined the chorusa senator who has been reckoned as a dry. but who, having been defeated for the Republican nomination by Herbert Hoover, supported Al Smith. How is Senator Norris to be classed? Is he merely trying to win back his former dry supporters in Nebraska by demanding the decapitation of Andy Mellon? Perish the thought! That would be playing politics. Senator Norris supported Al Smith for purely idealistic reasons, far, far removed above the sordid atmosphere of politics. The voters of Nebraska can not understand, that's all. They are too stupid to grasp the reasons why Norris chose to support Al Smith. It is not for them to reason why-they never could guess. It is merely up to them to reelect Norris, the ex-Republican, the ex-dry, the ex-champion of Nebraska.

So Mark Sullivan's criminal indictment does not touch Senator Norris. He is not playing politics, because he is not a Democrat, and not from the South.

AMERICA'S POPULATION.

The Bureau of Economic Research estimates that the population of the United States has increased more than 14,000,000 during the ten-year period ended in 1928, bringing the total population to 119,306,000. The figures are interesting because they indicate a slowing up in the growth of this country. The volume of increase was approximately the same as for the period from 1910 to 1920, but, of course, the percent age was smaller. The increase during the last decade amounts to approximately 14 per cent compared with 21 per cent during the first decade of this century.

Two reasons for this slower rate of increase are apparent. Immigration has been restricted to a comparatively small number and there has been a rapid decline in the birth rate. Countries which have little or no immigration are finding their population stationary or diminishing. In both Gerforcement" is meaningless. He considers it many and England the birth rate has fallen a demand of fanalics for punishment of vio- so low that the present level of population ing the large Eastern lines.

generation. France also faces a diminution of population, and in spite of all Premier Mussolini's pleas for more bables in Italy there has been a sharp decline in the birth rate of that country this year.

As for the United States, students of population statistics agree that if the birth rate continues to decline and immigration restrictions are maintained a reduction in the number of inhabitants 20 or 30 years hence is inevitable. Since 1915 the birth rate has declined from 25.1 to 19.7 per 1,000 persons. This is offset to some extent by a decline in the death rate, which, however, is less pronounced.

Fears of overpopulation, which have been prevalent in some quarters ever since Thomas Robert Malthus advanced his famous theory, have no foundation in this generation. The present acute problem is limitation of the food supply to fit the needs of the country. With population tending toward diminution and agricultural production increasing its efficiency, there is no period in sight when this country will want for food. The contrast between conditions today and in the age of Malthus is an excellent illustration of how seemingly flawless theories go astray.

FOOTBALL RULES.

Each year, following the conclusion of the football season, there are meetings of coaches and officials, preliminary to the meeting of the rules-making committee. Of late the rules have been amended or changed every year, despite the fact that the public has protested that football is being ruined. Several days ago the first meeting of the 1929 season was held in New York. The Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Football Officials, 62 strong, debated the merits of the present set of rules for four hours following which it recommended one change, namely, that a 5-yard penalty be imposed against a member of an attacking team who ouches a punt made by one of his team mates before the ball has been touched by an opponent. The association voted down the recommendation that the new and unpopular fumble rule be abolished.

The recommended alteration of the rules s designed to stimulate the running back of punts, one of the real thrills of the game. If it would do this, it probably would be a popular innovation despite the general objection to tampering with the rules. By what logic, however, does the association justify recommending an alteration to stimulate the running back of punts while at the same time it refuses to recommend the abolition of the fumble rule? The recovery of a fumbled ball provides far greater thrills than the running back of a punt.

No matter what recommendations are made in these preliminary meetings, the public will not be satisfied until the fumble rule is eliminated.

The United States has gained 14,000,000 population in the last ten years, including bootleggers.

Regardless of what the weather man says, there's a wet storm brewing in Washington.

RAILWAY CONSOLIDATION

By L. B. N. GNAEDINGER, In the New York Times.

The magnitude of the railway consolidation problem, which some observers believe the Interstate Commerce Commission has gone a long way toward solving, may be judged by figures showing the extent of transportation in this country. The commission seeks to realign an industry that had a net operating income of $1,313,000,000 in the year ended with August. The mileage of United States railroads is from six to twelve times that of any other country with transportation facilities anywhere comparable. The stated property investment of our railways totaled $25,313,637,268 a year ago and it increases from day to day.

The machine is not merely cumbers it is efficient. It has steadily increased its capacity in recent years without a corresponding increase in capital expenditure. It moves freight faster and it makes a pound of coal or a pint of oil go farther than ever before.

If the machine is so efficient, the question may be asked as to why the commission seeks now to improve it. Railroad men already committed to the principle of consolidation assert that the railroads have realized all the economy possible from reducing expenditures, that "there is no more juice in that lemon." In the face of steady decreases in rates, with six of every seven rate changes authorized by the commission involving reductions, they say that the rail-roads must join the merger movement which is already well advanced in every other large industry. Why, they ask, should the right to new mergers, when this does not involve restraint of trade, be denied only to the rail

They contend, moreover, that this was realized when the principle of consolidation was embodied in the transportation act, although the stated purpose of this inclusion was to so balance weak with strong lines that an equitable rate structure could be devised for each region. Those who oppose consolidation say that the unprecedented prosperity enjoyed by the railroads in recent years means that there are practically no more weak lines. Nevertheless, powerful groups among the railroads have thrown themselves into campaigns for consolidation. They have been opposed, and the resultant situation called for some kind of ar bitration by the Interstate Commerce Commission regardless of conditions at the time when the transportation act was made law. Submission of a plan for consolidation by the commission is in respect to the East's culmination of an evolutionary process dating from around 1880. It was the orgy of railway construction in the eighties that created many of the shorter Eastern lines which have since been merged or are due to be merged into larger systems. The transportation act, passed when the railroads were returned from government to private ciple which had already been used in build-

D EOPLE who are acquainted with want covet money because it will buy comforts and luxuries. People who are accustomed to luxuries covet money because it gives rank and prestige and

All people who have unbroken spirits covet rank. If they are scorned and obscure, they yearn to "be somebody." If they are respected and self-respecting, they still nurse an ambition to climb higher—to win the praise of their fellow craftsmen, to win popula: applause, or to win the approval and fellowship of the community's ocial leaders.

This urge to win the other man's approval or become superior to himals bred in the bone. It has made America a nation of "dollar chasers."

There are many wealthy Americans who would welcome a new ocial system with nobility at the top. They dearly love a lord, and their hearts flutter when a prince crosses the Atlantic.

They are no longer content with the aristocracy of wealth. Money has become too common. Millionaires are too plentiful, and each year a new crop comes knocking at the doors of the elect.

When fortunes became too common to confer distinction, society began to lionize genius and to admit the great servants of humanity. The man who composed an opera or discovered a continent or invented a machine found himself drinking tea with social dictators. And then men of great wealth began to tire of occupations that all other unrelated builds on the land to be acquired be offered no reward except more wealth and accepted invitations to

In all lands and all times people have coveted money, but they never lust after it as Americans now do if social rank and honor and popular envy are to be won by some other means.

It is distinction people desire. Given money enough to satisfy their needs, they will covet no more if social rank can be won without it. People who can not hope for social equality on any condition as Commander in Chief of the Army seldom are money mad.

If America would establish a social caste with rank determined by learning, service, virtue and accomplishment, boys in their 'teens would dream of winning honor instead of riches. would dream of winning honor instead of riches.

While money wins rank and popular envy or adoration, men will e tempted to get it by any means that may be necessary. To rob money of its power for evil, offer some other currency that men can exchange for the distinction they covet. (Convelent 1020) consultative treaty idea can only be conjectured.

Mr. Stimson's formal statement confined itself to saying that the British paper did not involve the Kellogg pact. He did not say in so many words that the United States has altered its conception that the Kellogg pact, as well as the League covenant, ends old concepts of neutrality.

His purpose seemed to be, however, to silence isolationist criticism by a disavowal of such a construction of the Kellogg treaty.

What Today Means to You

the best hours for you on this date are from 6:30 a. m. to 8:50 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 10:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9:15 p. m.

A dull time is augured for this date, and there will be little incentive to force the wheels of progress. Procrastination and not precipitation will be the order of the day. An attitude of indifference will extend toward all phases of life.

Children born on this December 31 will be petulant and high tempered. They will possess considerable energy, but will not be patient enough to apply either their physical or mental forces properly. They will lead a roaming life.

You are rather inclined to take a suspicious outlook, which bars you from these pleasant human contacts.

You are rather inclined to take a suspicious outlook, which bars you from those pleasant human contacts which are the essence of a well-ordered happy life. It is true that treachery and traitors exist, but it is not necessary to be always on guard, as you are; good and bad people are each less so than they seem.
You are ambitious and a very hard worker, and you are happiest when engrossed in some task which demands the best in you. So-called leisure hours are not the best hours in your life, for you are not a successful loafer. You have remarkable powers of endurance, and you dogedly pursue those things which you deem essential to your individual life. Your character betrays no tendency to pursue any middle course in vital matters.
You should never disregards or ignore presentiments, as you have considerable nawchie foresight.

You should never disregard or ignore presentiments, as you have considerable psychic foresight—you are much interested in occult matters.
Do not try to quiet the "still small voice" which speaks from within—by listening to it you will be saved from many a disappointment or unhappiness. Good fortune and success and perhaps personal happiness, often appear to be almost obliterated in your horoscopical reading, but they reappear at the crucial moment.

WORK'S BRIDGE

T either Auction or Contract Bridge, North and South would do all the bidding: at Auction, South would bid one Spade, North two Diamonds and South two No Trumps: at Contract, South would start with two Spades, North would bid three Diamonds and South three No Trumps.

When the hand was played, West led his Deuce of Hearts, choosing the weaker of his two four-card major suits because South had bid the Spades. When South won with the Ace, he put dummy in with a Diamond, led a Spade from dummy and linessed the Ten. West won with the Jack, after which East and West won three rounds of Hearts. At trick 7, West led a Diamond through dummy's strength, South having discarded a Diamond and a Club on the last two rounds of Hearts. Dummy won this trick with the King and the Declarer, appreciating that he was in dummy for the last time and that to make game he must take the remaining tricks, led a Club and finessed. When South's Queen won, Declarer tried to drop the Spades. If he had succeeded he would have made his game, but he failed and consequently the game was saved by the enemy.

The Correct Play.

Success or failure in this hand hinged on the establishing of a long suit by the Declarer; his choice lay between five Spades headed by Ace-King in closed hand and five Diamonds headed by Ace-King in dummy. A hasty survey might have indicated the Spades as the better selection because closed hand's third Spade was a Ten against dummy's Diamond Seven; but the choice was the other way because closed hand had three Diamonds and dummy only two Spades. The combined hands having eight Diamonds and only seven Spades, there was more probability of a satisfactory break of the adverse Diamonds than of the adverse Spades.

Declarer, after winning the first (Heart) trick, should have led a Diamond from closed hand and ducked in dummy. The adversaries would have won and cashed three Hearts; after that they must come back to Declarer to let him win four Diamonds, two Spades and two Clubs for a total (with the one Heart) of nine tricks and game.

Black and white ensemble-marocain dress with white crepe and black velvet trimming, and ermine trimmed wool coat. (Courtesy of Maison Premet, Paris.)

No, I haven't forgotten to wish you the happiest New Year's of all from Dah-ray!

Premet's quiet smartness appears in the black and white ensemble illustrated for you today. The dress is black marocain, with a white crepe incrustation in the front, which looks like a vestee. And then the black velvet petal-shaped trimming, the stitching, the bolero line, the white cuffsone and all lend their touches of chic. And, of course, a black woolen fabric cost, cut quite circular, and discreetly trimmed in ermine.

Paris, Dec. 30.

Ow we just have to drop everything and wish you a very happy New Year! From El Secretaire Gallant comes a very short cable from England (always an indication that he is slightly cramped in the pocketbook).

And this to Year. And this is La Chic Secretaire's and And this is La Chic Secretaire's and the left-handed artist's first holiday season away from home. They have just dashed in to ask me how many more cups of tea they simply had to drink before all my visiting cards were distributed! In between tea-ladened gasps for breath, they wish you the happiest ever New Year!

A little of this and a little of that can make any purse on Fifth avenue look, well, slightly indisposed, if you send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet, which tells you how to make some lovely evening purses. Inexpensive they are, and smart, truly!

The weekly Dare fashion letter, you know, appears each Sunday in The Washington Post. You should look for it.

FOREIGN ISSUES DECLINE

New York, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Selling for tax purposes was unexpectedly small in today's session of the stock market—the last session in which regular transactions may be made for that purpose — and shorts were prompted to cover their commitments. Urgent bidding for leading shares in the last hour of trading sent dozens up 2 to 10 points, Trading rose to the largest volume in ten days, transfers totaling 4,159,860 shares.

Tax selling was widely in evidence, however, and closing prices were highly irregular. The establishing of losses to lessen taxable income was most notable in the number of Issues traded. Small lots of scores of inactive issues were dumped overboard, and as the market is thin in such shares, several broke to new lows. The number of Issues traded was the largest since the frantic days of November. Tax sales made tomorrow must be for cash, as regular transactions will not be cleared until January 2.

Much of the short interest was refrained from covering at this time for the same reason that many persons long of stock have been selling, that is, to hold down income taxable during 1930. Shorts who successfully refrain from taking their profits until after the turn of the year will not be taxed on them until 1931.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank's preliminary report on department store sales in the New York metropolitan area for the first 24 days of December was particularly interciping, showing an increase of about pay per cent over a year ago, which is ather better than had been hoped for. The final November figures on pholesale trade, for this reserve dispitct, however, showed clearly the execut of the recession. Sales were six yer cent smaller than for the previous sovember, the largest decline since june, 1928. Diamond dealers reported a decrease of nearly one half.

Leading foreign exchanges sagged, reflected completion of the year-end transfers, but business was quiet, pending the turn of the year. bond market made a dull showing to-day and the price trend was highly day and the price trend was highly mixed, foreign obligations and the cheaper industrials and specialties sold off sharply, but small investment buying served to sustain most of the high grade loans.

Bankers reported that the year-end credit requirements were being easily met and predicted lower money rates for next week. Call funds held today at 6 per cent, just half the charge a year ago when concerted efforts were being made to keep it from going above 12. There was no change in time money rates, which are about prer cent below the levels of the last days of 1928.

Nevertheless, the cost of loans is still a trifle too high to make bond purchases attractive and many expert investors are apparently awaiting not chaffy cheaper money, but also some assurance that interest charges will remain down, thur making possible the commencement of a definite upward swing in the price cycle.

South American Issues Drop.

South American Issues Drop.

South American Issues Drop.

Most of the selling in foreign bonds was in the lower priced issues. Some of which went to their lows for the year. Declines of 1 to 3 points were noted in numerous instances, chiefly in the Latin-American section. Rio Grande do Sul 7s made the maximum drop of 7 points. European government issues held firm.

Fluctuations in domestic bonds were rather errati-, for the market was very thin. Atchison General 4s and Adjustmert 4s, for instance, each gained a woint, but the Convertible 4s and the Rocky Mountain Division 4s lost 2½ and 1½, respectively. Pennsylvania Consolidated 4s touched a new I-w on a loss of 3½ points, but only $10,000 in principal amount was involved.

On the whole, changes in the rails,

Panthers Drill in Rose Bowl for Trojan Fray Tomorrow.

No Colds, No Injuries, No Alibis, Says Pittsburgh Coach.

Pasadena. Calif. Dec. 30 (A.P.).—
Determined to rebuild the presting of Eastern football from the ruins of the Army defeat at the hands of Stanford Saturday. the Golden Panthers of Pittaburgh, 29 strong, arrived today at the scene of their scheduled tourament of roses battle with the University of Southern California New Year's Day.

The invading aquad, showing signs of only slight fatigue as a result of their long train ride, hopped off a special car at Alhambra, near here, at 10:10 a. m. In the afternoon they went to the Rose Bowl for a snappy practice session.

Coach John "Jock" Sutherland, who is bringing his team to the annual East-West clash for the second time, declined to predict an outcome for the impending contest.

"My men apparently are in good condition—no coids, no injuries—and they will be ready for a real fight," as if the tacitum Eastern mentor.

"The weather?" he repeated the question.

"Just say the weather will have no effect whatever on the outcome. Contrary to predictions of Southern California sports writers the climate will not decide Wednesday's game."

Capt. Albert Di Meolo echoed the statement of his coach. "We will have no alibi on the climats. We are in great shape and expect to win."

A large crowd greeted the invaders, including two former Pitt coaches. Gleun "Pop" Warner and Tiny Thornhill, Stanford mentors.

Pollowing a brief rest at their hotel, the Panthers donned grid togs and went to the scene of the January I fray. Prior to the workout, they paraded before news cameramen, then the gates were locked and they estited down to the business of putting on the finishing touches for the clash.

In the meantime, Cosch Howard Jones, who Saturday had his Trojan gridsters moved almost to the very shadows of the Rose Bowl today, took them back to Los Angeles for a secret practice seasion at Bovard Field, scene of their preparation for the Pitt invasion. The U. S. C. coaching staff declared the men of Troy ready.

Cosch Sutherland said he probably would start Joseph Donchess and Paul Collins at the ends; Charles Tully and James MacMurdo at the tackies; Captain Albert Di Meolo and Ray Montgomery, guards; Ralph Daugherty, center; Edward Baker, quarter back; Cotavius Uanas and William Walinchus, half backs, and Tom Parkinson, full back.

Injuries Force Kerr to Change Plans for Coast Battle.

S AN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30 (A.P.). Rival teams of East and West today buckled down for the last two days of the training grind before the Shrine's annual East-West grid game at Kezar Stadium New Year's Day.

On the secluded campus of St. Mary's College, Coach Percy Locey of the Western squad sent his men through two strefluous workouts. The Eastern Eleven was hard at it down on the Stanford farm after a full day away from the practice field.

Uncertainty over the starting lineups still existed in both camps, although Locey seemed to have his more definitely in mind than Andy Kerry. An injury to Tommy Dowler, speedy little half back from Colgate, has forced Kerr to change his back field plans. Dowler had been counted on as one of the East's principal threats.

Move to Abolish Point After Touchdown Fails at Meeting.

Other Proposals for Amending Gridiron Code Blocked.

By BRIAN BELL.

By BRIAN BELL.

New YORK, Dec. 30 (A.P.)—Football coaches, meeting in annual convention today, decided by a decisive vote that the rules of the game should be left as they are. The question came before the convention on a report of the rules committee of the Coachea Association, hesded by Glenn Thistlethwaite, University of Wisconsin, recommending three changes in the code, the most far-reaching being the proposed elimination of the point after touchdown. Chairman Thistlethwaite presented the report and spoke vigorously for the abolition of the extra point. On motion of R. W. P. Brown, Boston University, who suggested that in view of the recodification of the rules, now practically complete, no changes should be made in the rules, the proposals were overwhelmingly defeated. The decision was by upraised hands and no totals were announced, but the vote seemed about four or five to one.

Sutherland, Pittsburgh.

The report of the rules committee of the Gosches Association marshaled an array of facts and statistics against the extra point after touchdown. Searching of records for the 1928 season showed the committee that an average of seven plays was necessary to score each point registered during the season and it seemed out of proportion to have one play yield one point after touchdown.

The two other changes proposed classifying penalties or that if two fouls called on the same play, one major and the other minor, instead of the ball reverting to its original position, the difference between the two penalties be assessed. The other proposal would have given a team in possession of the ball within 5 yards of the side lines, the option of puting it in play 15 yards from the side line with the loss of a down.

Tom Lieb, Notre Dame, spoke of conditioning and training football players, stressing the danger of losing football games on practice fields.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

SIMILAR to the manner in which they romped home in the National League flag race, the Chicago Cubs stole the show from their rivals in the matter of long-distance hitting, slugging percentage, runs batted in, etc., as shown in the official "miscellaneous" figures just released by the senior circuit.

Lewis R. (Hack) Wilson, of the league champions, drove in 159 runs. battering Rogers Hornsbys 1922 record of 162. The race in this respect was a hot four-cornered one, with Mel Ott, sensational Giant youngster. second, with 151: Hornsby third, with 149, and Chuck Klein, of the Phills, fourth, with 149. Hornsby heads the sluggers for the second consecutive year, with a percentage of 681, 49 points higher than his 1928 mark; and also led in total bases, with 410. Klein, with 405, was the only other player to exceed the 400 mark. Lefty O'Doul, the ace batter, having to be satisfied with 397. His only claim to prominence in the figures released today was being charged with the most times at bat, 638. Wilson Fanned Most Times, Wilson Fanned Most Times, While Wilson drove home the most while Wilson drove home the most-runs, he also led the league in strike-outs, fanning no less than 83 times during the season. Of the regular players, Harold (Pie) Traynor, of the Pirates, was fooled by the pitchers the least number of times, being charged with a third strike on only seven occasions. Ott drew the great-est number of passes, strolling 113 times, while Jimmy Welsh, of the Glants and Braves, proved to be the best target, being hit by pitchers 11 times.

"Sunny Jim" Bottomley, of the Cardinals, broke no records, but he had the satisfaction of driving home 137 runs, passing the 100 mark in this respect for the sixth consecutive season.

Among the clubs, Philadelphia led

The Cubs proved to be the best "home" team, leading by a big margin with a 675 average (52 victories and 25 defeats), with the Giants doing the best work on the road, winning 45 of 75 games for a .800 average. The Pirates were close seconds with the Cubs third.

coach of the University of Wisconsin, presented statistics obviously collected at great cost of study and effort to show that the try for the point after touchdown was a play much more favored by success than any other play in the game. He had reduced things to decimals. In 1.847 games observed in 1928 points were scored at the rate of one for every 7.8 plays.

"So why?" he demanded, "should a point which often means the winning or losing of a game be scored on a single play?"

Without bothering to explain why this should continue to be so the coaches voted not to propose this change to the football rules committee per their own advisory committee.

Thistiewaite's valuable statistics became as so many imperial rules and the heediess world rushed on.

Silent Bob Zuppke of the University of Illinois was prevailed on to say a few million words here and there as the day went on, discussing a great variety of matters with expert authority, but most of the session was devoted to a program of mutual admiration and profound respect. There was an endiess profession of chunky, ruddy complexioned football experts in square toed shoes, wearing gold footballs on their watch chains, up to the blackboard on the dias where each one explained with a series of curving arrows and mathematical symbols some play of which he considered himself a master. Mr. Yost, of Michigan, was to have explained a play nimself a master. Mr. Yost, of Michigan, was to have explained a play but discovered that there were only six colors of chalk in the room, whereas he required no fewer than eight for a straight offtackle buck.

Bezdek Startles

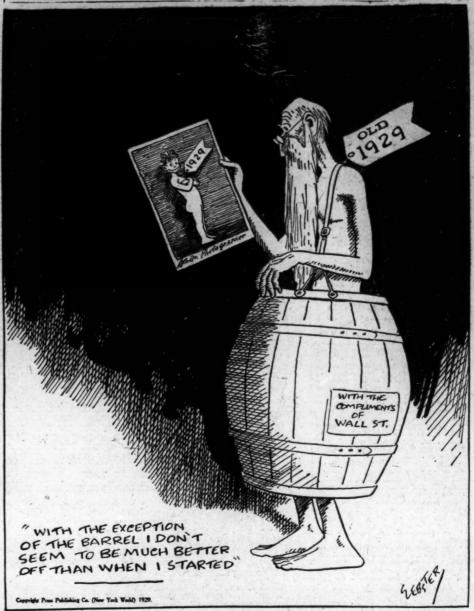

Rockne's Aids.

Hugo Bezdek, the retiring president, indorsed the deadball fumble rule invoked last fall and liked it so well that he would have extended it to prevent the defensive side from advancing on intercepted pass. At this Johnny Law, late captain of the Notre Dame team; Jack Chevigny, assistant back field coach; Tom Lieb, first assistant to Knute Rockne, Elmer Layden and Harry Stuhldreher, all left the room looking ill. It was by advancing an intercepted pass 98 yards that Jack Elder, of Notre Dame, beat the Army a few weeks ago.

The affairs of the American Olympic Association are always very complex and unhappy, however, and inasmuch as the Los Angeles olympics will not be held until 1931 it isn't urgent to go into details regarding the troubles Rockne's Aids.

REAL BATTLE PROMISED IN DIXIE

Fight to Make Up for Lack of Teamwork in Charity Game.

cial to The Washington Post.

A TLANTA, Ga., Dec. 30.—Maj. Bob Neyland. coach of the northern division in the charity football game. which will be played here New Year's Day, looks for a hard battle with the southern division eleven that will be coached by Charles Bachman, of Florida.

will be coached by Charles Bachman, of Florida.

"I can't see anything but a close, hard game," he said. "These all-star games are always hard-fought. It is next to impossible to develop any great amount of timing on plays and this means that there 'ill be a hard fight, with just a question of who can get his backs away.

"I haven't any idea what my line-up will be and will not select my starters until after the final practice tomorrow afternoon."

The Tennessee coach had some advantage in his back-field line-up in that it includes three of hi, own team who have worked together for three years, two of them in varsity competition.
"I don't know that I will use all years, two of them in varsity competition.

"I don't know that I will use all three of my men," he said. "I don't want any one to think - am favoring Tennessee men and then there may be some of these other back, who would fit in better. I'm trying them all thoroughly.

"These all-star games are always difficult things to handle. am anxious to make this one a success. The conference has indorsed it and it is for a fine cause. While I am against postseason all-star games as a general rule, I am anxious to eee this one succeed. My boys are all eager to play and want to win for their section.

"I will have a long workout this eager to play and want to win for their section.

"I will have a long workout this afternoon. It will probably last two or three hours. We haven't much time. And there is a lot to be done." The team will use Tech's, two fields, one working on Grant Field, the other on the Rose Bowl Field. Tech's dressing rooms will be used and the Fech football managers have volun-teered their services. They were as-signed to the teams this morning.

Dolly Boy Pays $120.90 To Win at Agua Caliente

Agua Caliente, Mexico, Dec. 30 (A. P.).—Benny Cresch's Andromeda won the featured attraction at Agua Cali-

the featured attraction at Agua Callente today. Polita, the favorite, was second, and Russell, an Eastern horse, was third. The race was a 5½-furlong sprint for all ages. The purse was worth $1.000. The distance was covered in 1.06 I-5.

Andromeda ran in second place until 70 yards from the finish, where she came with a rush on the inside and passed Polita, which had led to a that point. Polita displayed high speed, but simply could not stick it out, despite the assistance of young Schutte. Russett, from the Donley Stable, was third in the five-horse field. When Andromeda connected it made a double for Jockey J. Redding.

Dolly Bay won the first race, paying $120.90. Levulose was second and Palalka was third. The race was a 5½-furlong dash.
